GET YOUR BLOG ON!

RedEye's new blog on chicagonow.com keeps rolling along. What? You haven't checked it out yet? Here's what you're missing.

This week, we bid farewell to the Sears Tower (left), which you can now call the Willis Tower (if you're into that sort of thing). Elsewhere, "Check, Please!" host Alpana Singh shared her column about the basic wines you should keep on hand for any occasion. And celebrity chef judge Rick Bayless kept the comments coming as part of RedEye's virtual kitchen smackdown.

Seriously, you should check it out.

Weekend Experience at Eli's Cheesecake World
6701 W. Forest Preserve Drive, 773-736-3417; elicheesecake.com

Check it out if you ... Are more interested in eating food than watching it be made, can't turn down free dessert, like a really decadent afternoon snack.

The deets: At 1 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, you can drop in for a free tasting at Eli's Cheesecake World. The sessions run between 30 and 40 minutes and include a slideshow on how the business started, where they get their ingredients and how the cheesecakes are made and hand-decorated. After the presentation, guests sample two or three varieties of their upscale couture cheesecakes, with ingredients including blood orange and cinnamon. You'll also taste their signature crust, which is baked separately from cookies and then baked again once the cheesecake is added. No reservations are needed for groups under nine people.

The payoff: New appreciation of a delicious treat.

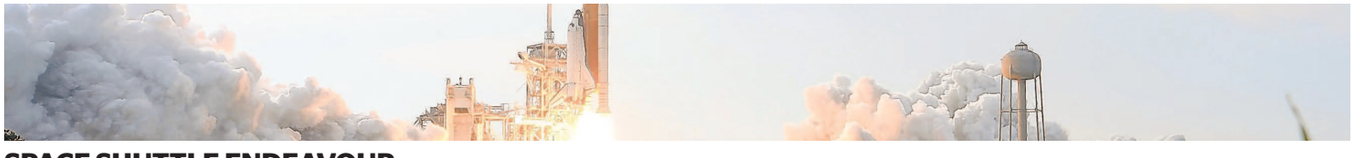
WORKING THEIR MAGIC

A LOOK AT THE WEEK'S NEWS THROUGH 'POTTER' GLASSES

Have you seen it yet? "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," which opened Wednesday, sold $58.38 million worth of tickets in the U.S. and Canada on its debut day, according to distributor Warner Bros. It had the second-highest-grossing debut ever for a movie opening on a Wednesday and trailed only the "Transformers" sequel that opened last month, according to The Associated Press. As a nod to the story of a boy and his adventures in wizardry, here's a look at a few of the week's newsmakers who have really done the trick recently.

PRESIDENT OBAMA The commander in chief threw out the ceremonial first pitch at Tuesday's All-Star Game, and thanks to Albert Pujols, he didn't bounce it in. The Cardinals slugger scooted up on the plate to save the pitch from skidding across the ground. Quite the sleight of hand!

THE CTA As the Tribune reported, the CTA came up with about $35 million in cost savings this week to erase its latest budget deficit despite recent claims there was nothing left to cut except bus and train service. A work of magic? You be the judge.



SPACE SHUTTLE ENDEAVOUR Although a section of its fuel tank lost foam during liftoff, the space shuttle was able to take off Wednesday. NASA program manager John Shannon told The Associated Press the agency isn't "worried about this flight." The amazing thing about the launch? It also happened to be the 40th anniversary of the launch of the first manned moon landing.

Chatting with the Tower

The building formerly known as the Sears Tower got a new name tag Thursday when it was rechristened the Willis Tower. We caught up with the tallest building in the U.S. to see how it's settling in to life under a new moniker.

REDEYE: Watchu talkin' 'bout, Willis?
WILLIS TOWER: Oh that's rich. Haven't heard that one before. Next question.

RE: All told, you have about 1,450 feet in you from top to bottom. Where do you keep all of your shoes?
WT: Is this seriously happening? What's next, knock-knock jokes? Where's my agent? Sandra!

RE: Knock-knock.
WT: Who's there?
RE: Willis.
WT: Willis who?
RE: Willis building be the same with a new name?

WT: This interview is over.

A GUIDE'S GUIDE

THEY DEAL WITH CHICAGO'S TOURISTS SO YOU DON'T HAVE TO

By Zak Stambor
FOR REDEYE

To some, the thought of spending nine hours a day listening to tourists babble on about how they didn't know Chicago was on a lake or how they thought the city was full of "SNL's" Superfan clones or other such silliness sounds like torture.

But Walt Chadick is not most people.

Chadick, a 38-year-old Arkansas native who lives in Ukrainian Village, is a tour guide and tour guide trainer for Chicago Trolley and Double Decker, a company that shuttles tourists around the city in its 75 San Francisco-style trolleys, double-decker buses and one so-called land yacht.

"Chicago is the best-kept secret in America," he said. "Ninety percent of the people who go on my tours are blown away about the cleanliness of downtown—they have no idea that this is what Chicago looks like. They think this is a gangster-ridden, dirty, industrial town."

That misimpression of Chicago's scenery is common, said Ed Krystosek, a 35-year-old tour guide for Bobby's Bike Hike, a River East-based company that offers a variety of sightseeing bike tours.

"People think Chicago is just another Midwestern industrial city like Cleveland or Detroit," said Krystosek, an Edgewater resident. "But when we go out on the tour they find the city's natural beauty astonishing. Most don't realize how green it is—how many tree-lined streets, how many parks there are and how many beaches there are."

Last year, Chicago experienced the first dip in five years in the number of tourists, the Tribune reported. About 32.4 million U.S. tourists visited Chicago in 2008. That's about 400,000 fewer people than the year before, according to the Chicago Office of Tourism.

To help bolster its tourism industry, Chicago is going after locals and visitors alike, for the first time encouraging non-tourists to participate in some of the city's free events, such as neighborhood and themed tours. People are looking to stretch a dollar, and any free entertainment helps, Dorothy Coyle, director of the Chicago tourism office told the Tribune.

For tour guides such as Krystosek, who also is a stage actor and director who starred in the Artistic Home's Jeff-nominated "The Madwoman of Chaillot," being able to show off the city is just an added benefit of a flexible full-time job that allows them to "live comfortably." (None of the tour guides would disclose their salaries, but all said the majority of their income comes between spring break and October.) They said flexible schedules also allow them the freedom to pursue another career.

Chadick estimated that about half the Chicago Trolley and Double Decker tour guides are enrolled in programs at Second City or iO Training Center, or are stand-up comics and actors, while another 30 percent or so are aspiring poets, writers or artists.

"Basically tour guides are just charismatic people who don't fit in an office," he said. "It's an easy job for someone in the arts because they may realize that they're not going to make a living in poetry, but can pay the rent with tours. The flexibility is a big part of it. If a person has an audition they can switch their shift with someone else." ZAK STAMBOR IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

CHICAGO TOURS FOR CHICAGOANS

Not every tour is for fanny pack-wearing rubes eager to see the "big city" for the first time. Tours also can give Chicagoans a chance to see their city in a fresh light. Here are just a few of those off-the-beaten-path tours. ZAK STAMBOR

IIT/Mies Society Architectural Tour

iit.edu/giving/mies/tours; 312-567-5025

If there's a discussion about architecture, chances are Ludwig Mies van der Rohe comes up in conversation. Find out why he's so damn important at this tour that showcases the campus of the Illinois Institute of Technology, including the masterpiece S.R. Crown Hall. Tours take place every day at 10 a.m. The tours, which are $10 per person, leave from the McCormick Tribune Campus Center (3201 S. State St.).

Untouchables Tours

gangstertour.com; 773-881-1195

You've seen "Public Enemies." You've seen "The Untouchables." Now learn the real-life stories of Chicago's gangster past as you visit a slew of notorious hot spots and hit spots. Tours, which are $28 per person, leave from 600 N. Clark St. Multiple tours take place every day so check the Web site for times.

Chicago Neighborhood Tours

chicagoneighborhoodtours.com; 312-742-1190

Spend an afternoon taking in some of the neighborhoods that make Chicago one of the most diverse cities in the world. Chicago Neighborhood Tours offer a number of different tours—from a taste of Greektown, Chinatown and Little Italy to an 1893 World's Columbian Exposition-inspired trek. Neighborhood tours are $30 for adults and $25 for seniors and students; and special interest tours, like the World's Columbian Exposition tour, are $50 for adults and $45 for seniors and students. Tours, which are offered on select dates, pick up at the Chicago Cultural Center (77 E. Randolph St.).

Chicago Chocolate Tour

chicagochocolate tours.com/tours; 312-929-2939

Spend two hours chomping down on chocolate as you visit several of the city's premier chocolate shops and cafes and learn about the history of chocolate. Tours, which are $40 per person, meet at 900 N. Michigan Ave. Wednesday through Sunday.

TOURING PAINS

Although tour guides say that they love showing people why they love Chicago, everyone has their own pet peeves when tourists mention this or that, or do something obnoxious. Here are some of the most common irksome remarks or actions. ZAK STAMBOR

Quick stopper

The tourist who thinks it's OK to plant his feet right in the middle of State Street and take a picture while you're trying to get to work. Also spotted on the escalators standing in the way as you make your way out of the subway station.

Mr. Cliché

The tourist who asks, "Why don't you speak like the ['SNL' sketch] Superfans?" Other common questions include, "Isn't every politician a crook?" and "Where's the wind—isn't this the Windy City?"

Directionless wonder

The tourist who doesn't have a map but demands to know how to get from the Sears (or should we say Willis?) Tower to Wrigley Field to the Museum of Science and Industry before her 7 p.m. dinner reservation.

Map maven

The opposite of the directionless wonder, the map maven is so obsessed with staring at his map he fails to notice that he has walked into 10 different people who are trying to hustle to their offices.

The photo solicitor

The tourist who desperately tries to stop every last person running to the "L" at the end of the day to see if they will take her picture.

BUT WAIT! THERE'S MORE!

RedEye asked our blog readers to chime in on tourists behaving badly. Here are a few:

Wide walkers

The groups of tourists or families that insist on walking in a horizontal line together along Michigan Avenue at a slow pace, making it impossible to dodge around them while you're rushing to work.

—JESSICAGALLIART

Pop quizzers

"Is that the Sears Tower?" they ask, pointing to the John Hancock. "What's that doing here?" they ask, pointing to the Water Tower. "Why is Chicago called The Second City?" These are all answers that can be researched and found with little effort. —MATT_B

Chicago Hauntings Tour

chicagohauntings.com; 888-446-7891

Countless sites throughout the city are notorious for their ghost sightings and paranormal activity. Learn the stories behind these hauntings as you see the city in a whole new way. Tours, which are $28 for adults (plus a $2 service fee), $20 for children 8-12 years old, are offered Tuesday through Sunday. They pick up at 600 N. Clark St.

Chicago Dine-Around Progressive Dining Tour

chicagodinearound.com; 312-437-3463

Get chauffeured around the city as you enjoy a three-course meal with each course served at a different fine dining locale. Tours, which cost $85 a person, begin at the John Hancock Center (875 N. Michigan Ave.). Fridays and Saturdays.

Fork and the Road Bike Tours

forkandtheroad.com

Join two Chicago foodies on any one of their five themed culinary bike tours around the city. The tours allow cyclists to eat Mexican food on Maxwell Street (Unsung Chicago Classics Tour), Japanese at Andersonville's Sunshine Cafe (Tour of Asia), and sample a localvore's bounty (Local Vegetarian Chicago). Tours are $50-$60 a person and take place on either Saturday or Sunday, depending on the week.

TAKE IT

The Second City's Neighborhood Tour

'Hood: Old Town

Who better to give Chicagoans a guided tour of their own city than comedians—especially when those comedians come from a 50-year-old company that's been in town longer than the Sears, er, Willis Tower? (1969 beats 1973, Willis—sorry.) Dive into the Second City's new walking tour of Old Town as troupe members peruse the area's history and development while making stops at Second City vets' hangouts along the way. It all kicks off in the lobby of Second City headquarters (1616 N. Wells St. 312-337-3992). Can't make it this week? No worries; tours continue on Sundays and Wednesdays through Oct. 4. We predict this revue might require an extended stay. Want more not-for-tourist tours through the city?
Turn back to Pages 6 and 7.
When: 4 p.m. Sunday
Cash: $15

TASTE IT

North Side cuisine

'Hood: River North

In case you decided not to sample Chi-eats at this year's crazy-packed Taste of Chicago, opt for a slice of the foodie pie at Taste of River North (Erie Park, 630 N. Kingsbury St. 312-645-1047). Food is the focus of this year's neighborhood street fest, once known as River North Summerfest. Browse eats from 'hood mainstays such as La Madia (59 W. Grand Ave.), Fleming's Prime Steakhouse & Wine Bar (25 E. Ohio St.), English (444 N. La Salle St.) and Ai Japanese (358 W. Ontario St.) while listening to the worldly tunes of West African-inspired locals, Occidental Brothers Dance Band International (Saturday) and rockers Cracker (Sunday), who released their latest album, "Sunrise in the Land of Milk and Honey," in May.
When: 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday; 11 a.m.-7 p.m. Sunday
Cash: $5 donation

CELEBRATE IT

Fair weather

'Hood: Chinatown

Need an excuse to make a day of it in Chinatown? Here's a great one: the 30th annual Chinatown Summer Fair (2200 S. Wentworth Ave. 773-868-3010). Be there for the 12:45 p.m. procession and lion dance, jumpstarting a day of food, shopping and performances in Chinatown Square and beyond. Browse street vendors while sipping bubble tea and munching a wide selection of food from Chinatown restaurants. End your day back in the Square to hear Chicago soul-rocker Mia LeBlon at 3:45 p.m. on the mainstage.
When: 10 a.m. Sunday
Cash: Free

HEAR IT

Rusted Root, Poi Dog Pondering

'Hood: Sheffield/DePaul

Go on, head to the 41st annual Sheffield Garden Walk and Festival (Webster and Sheffield Avenues. 773-929-9255) for informed views of more than 100 lush neighborhood gardens, homes and landscaped walkways (hint: It's a heck of a date). But be sure to stick around after to take advantage of this popular street fest's beer and food mainstays plus invigorating live jams by headliners Rusted Root (8 p.m. Saturday) and Poi Dog Pondering (8 p.m. Sunday). Expect nothing short of driving beats and soaring renditions of classics from these veteran acts—a perfect way to end a garden stroll. Additional bands include Cowboy Mouth (Saturday) and Funkadesi (Sunday). Fest proceeds benefit Sheffield area schools and community gardens.
When: Noon-10 p.m. Saturday-Sunday; garden tours from noon-5:30 p.m.
Cash: $6-$10

DRINK IT

Affordable wine

'Hood: West Town

Not a wine person? Never sniffed or swirled, assuming the whole ordeal's out of your budget at the outset? Cue the Noble Grape (802 N. Bishop St. 312-846-1204), a new West Town wine boutique with a mission to reacquaint novices with diverse and, most importantly, affordable wine. To celebrate the store's opening, the Noble Grape's owners are throwing a vino-studded welcome party, complete with complimentary wine samples and cheese appetizers from 2-7 p.m. Stop by to sip while glimpsing the inexpensive selection, 90 percent of which is currently under $30. If you're still iffy about the whole wine experience, the Noble Grape also carries a selection of craft beers, including Three Floyds, Goose Island and Flying Dog.

South Side mary

By Lisa Balde

The scene: A bloody mary says a lot about a restaurant's brunch. Then again, the right vibe can set expectations high before you even take that first sip. So when we sat down for the newly launched brunch at Simone's, where bowling-alley planks frame the main bar, jalapenos top the signature burger and wall art screams neo-punk meets Victorian-Nintendo, we expected a doozy of a mary.

We weren't disappointed. The drink fits the place, which differentiates itself from its siblings (notably Logan Bar & Grill and Northside Bar & Grill) with an indie edge. By night, Simone's packs an eclectic mix of hipster hoodies seeking food and beer to the tune of DJ-spun rock jams. By day? There are fewer people, but the bar's just as spicy.

Simone's bloody mary ($7.50) comes stuffed with a skewer of Swiss cheese, jalapeno peppers and a paprika-, celery salt- and black pepper-covered green olive alongside a clever cracker wedge meant to ease the drink's deceptive bite. Trust us, you'll need the cracker. This isn't your grocer's Tabasco-tinged tomato brand; it's a lethal wasabi-laced mixture that made us thankful for the Metropolitan Flywheel Bright Lager chaser.

Not into fiery cocktails at an early hour? Simone's offers a range of tamer drinks, including a mimosa ($7.50) and coffee from Batavia, Ill.-based Papa Nicholas Coffee Co.

The cuisine: In keeping with Simone's dinner menu, which covers the basics with a twist, brunch offerings stick close to the norm without playing copycat. For one, an omelet-sized circle of scrambled egg tops Simone's version of chilaquiles ($6.50), and salsa verde coats tortilla chips just enough to kill the crunch but to avoid a soggy mess.

If you're vegetarian or just want something besides the same ol' eggs for breakfast, try a bowl of warm quinoa ($6), a protein-packed South American grain that's similar in texture to couscous. Simone's shakes up the substantial dish with almonds, cranberries and a dash of honey for extra sweetness.

Simone's omelet ($7.50) stuck closely to what you'd find on other brunch menus, but since we believe everything is better with bacon, this mozzarella-, caramelized red onion- and bacon-stuffed omelet won us over. Bonus: Hash browns are mixed with onions and red and green peppers for a slightly sweet twist on breakfast potatoes. If that doesn't spice up brunch expectations, what does?

LEAVE 'TOWN'

GETTY IMAGES FILE

Leave This Town
Daughtry

Did anyone really expect Chris Daughtry to alter the multiplatinum formula of his debut for his sophomore effort, "Leave This Town"? Of course not.

Daughtry is no dummy. But he's not particularly inspired this time out, either.

"Leave This Town" walks that same adult contemporary sweet spot that his hits "Home" and "It's Not Over" mined—big melodrama and big melodies for Daughtry to wrap his powerful voice around, with just enough rock guitar to keep it from seeming too wimpy or too country.

The problem, though, is that while the fourth-place "American Idol" finisher seemed to have something to prove on his debut, on "Leave This Town," he seems a bit complacent.

"Learn My Lesson" is one cliche after another, ending with a chorus of "If you strike the match, you're bound to feel the flame." The chorus of "September" is the laughably bad "In the middle of September, we still play out in the rain / Nothing to lose but everything to gain." And in "Supernatural," he actually rhymes moon and June.

It's too bad, because when Daughtry applies himself, he builds pretty good singalongs. The first single, "No Surprise"—think Coldplay's "Yellow" covered by Nickelback—works well, while the album's standout, the stripped-down "Tennessee Line," co-written with Vince Gill, is easily the best song Daughtry's ever recorded. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

Woman not happy about car being towed
tr.im/smtM

Who wouldn't be mad about arriving to a parking spot only to find that your car is already up on a tow truck's hooks? Well, what the woman in this video does when that happens to her is nothing short of extraordinary—and hilarious. We won't spoil the fun here, so you'll just have to watch the 36-second clip for yourself. JIM WALSH, REDEYE

ALBUM
(500) Days of Summer
Soundtrack, $13.99

The soundtrack for this Zooey Deschanel and Joseph Gordon-Levitt flick has gotten almost as much buzz as the movie itself—at least among indie types and media personalities. Featuring songs from hipsters old-ish (Simon and Garfunkel, The Smiths) and new-ish (Regina Spektor, Feist), there's a chance this thing could take off like a certain other love story that became a sleeper hit. Cough, "Garden State," cough.

Tabloid queen Lindsay Lohan seeks career rehab by going back to Disney, the studio that put her on the road to doom—I mean fame. In this predictable but pleasant TV movie, a thoroughly charming Lohan plays a put-upon publisher's assistant who pretends to be pregnant so that her boss won't fire her. The ploy works, but before Thea can come clean, her lie balloons into a giant, wacky mess.

This comic book-style action film is one of the last movies to feature the late David Carradine. Chad Everett stars as The Man, a crime boss who learns he is terminally ill and hires a hit man (Frank Krueger) to kill him—oh, and the woman he loves (Sarah Thompson)—so he won't go alone. The film turns dark—and noirly humorous—when the hit man discovers that the woman is his own long-lost love, and together they take on all comers.

Funny British talk show host Graham Norton doesn't have enough charm to save this awful, well, I guess it's a game show. Seven contestants stand before an audience of 100 in hopes of being the last gal standing and earning $10,000. The audience is tasked with judging the women, initially by looks alone and then by how the women respond to questions from Norton. Is the show supposed to teach us not to make snap judgments? It fails miserably.

Picking furniture to use in any pad

Situation: I need furniture that lasts a long time and will evolve with my home.
Solution: Invest in flexible pieces that serve multiple functions.

I've moved three times in the past five years. When you move that much, you start to notice which pieces of furniture are your long-term favorites—those solid, durable old friends that find their niche immediately in each new home. Others aren't so good at adjusting. IKEA furniture is inexpensive, but much of it can't survive more than one move. If you're looking for flexible furniture that will adapt as your home changes, here are a few pieces I recommend from personal experience.

2-Drawer Shaker reproduction work table from Shaker Workshops
$500 to $995 at shakerworkshops.com

I have a little Shaker reproduction end table that will probably outlast everything else I own. Its solid wood construction and clean-lined aesthetic fit in anywhere, whether surrounded by modern or traditional decor. Shaker work tables are even more versatile. Historically used for laundry and ironing, these two-drawer designs can serve as desks, entryway consoles, bedroom vanities or kitchen tables.

Componibili from Smart Furniture
$160 at smartfurniture.com

Designed by Anna Castelli Ferrieri in 1968, the Componibili is a modular storage system made from ABS plastic. Its continued popularity stems from the fact that it's stackable, easy to clean and it just looks cool. I have a white, three-compartment version that I've used for a bedside table, living room end table and bathroom storage. (It's the perfect hiding place for a hair dryer.) Right now, it sits next to my record player where it stows cables and gadgets.

Prince Aha Stool from Design Within Reach
$110, dwr.com

French designer Philippe Starck created the Prince Aha Stool in 1999 from polypropylene, so you can use it indoors or outside. The top and bottom open up for storage, and the drum-like design makes a great stool or side table. It's small enough to tuck away in a corner, use as a plant stand in the garden or fit into a bathroom nook. I use mine as a side table, and it always comes in handy as extra seating during parties.

DEAD SNOW (NR)

Nazis! Zombies! Spring break!

Easter vacation means one thing for a group of Norwegian med students: Ski trip! Too bad their chosen destination used to be a key harbor for German battleships during WWII, and Nazi zombies still roam the woods looking for fresh blood. You'd think that would have rated a mention in online reviews of the area.

The buzz: The movie seems like a missed opportunity from the start, since most people are probably less interested in seeing a horror flick called "Dead Snow" than they would be in seeing "Killer Nazi Zombies." That aside, hopefully Norway can rejuvenate the zombie movie with the same stylistic smarts that Sweden gave to 2008's "Let the Right One In."

The verdict: Finally a terrified twentysomething has the opportunity to dangle off a cliff while hanging by the intestines of a Nazi zombie. If this doesn't sound like your kind of movie, you're right. If it does, "Dead Snow" is bloody fun—so bloody, in fact, that the constant splatter yields diminishing returns. Scant character development means you don't care who gets disemboweled, and director Tommy Wirkola can't decide if he wants to be silly or scary. Still, spring break hasn't looked this delightfully deadly in a while.

Moon walk tapes get all spruced up

Associated Press

WASHINGTON With the help of Hollywood, those historic, grainy images of the first men on the moon never looked better. NASA unveiled refurbished video this week of the July 20, 1969, moonwalk restored by the same company that sharpened up the movie "Casablanca."

NASA lost its original moon landing videotapes and, after a three-year search, officials have concluded they were probably erased. That original live video was ghostlike and grainy.

NASA and a Hollywood film restoration company took TV video copies of what Apollo 11 beamed to Earth 40 years ago and made the pictures look sharper.

NASA emphasized the video isn't "new"—just better quality.

"There's nothing being created; there's nothing being manufactured," said NASA senior engineer Dick Nafzger, who's in charge of the project.

But some details seem new because of their sharpness. Originally, Armstrong's face visor was too fuzzy to be seen clearly. The refurbished video shows his visor and a reflection in it.

The $230,000 refurbishing effort is only three weeks into a months-long project, and only 40 percent of the work has been done. But it does show improvements in four snippets: Armstrong walking down the ladder, which includes the face visor image; Buzz Aldrin walking down the ladder; the two astronauts reading a plaque they left on the moon; and the planting of the flag on the moon.

Nafzger praised the restored work for its crispness. The restoration company, Lowry Digital of Burbank, Calif., also refurbished "Star Wars" and James Bond films, along with "Casablanca."

The company noted that the latter film had a pixel count 10 times higher than the moon video, meaning the moon footage was fuzzier than that vintage movie and more of a challenge in one sense.

But the moon video also was three continuous hours, not chopped up like movies are, which made some of the work easier, said Lowry president Mike Inchalik.

Of all the video the company has dealt with, he said, "This is by far and away the lowest quality."

WHAT ABOUT THE ORIGINALS?

The original moon landing videos beamed to Earth were stored on giant reels of tape that each contained 15 minutes of video, along with 13 other channels of live data from the moon. In the 1970s and 1980s, NASA had a shortage of the tapes and erased about 200,000 of those tapes and reused them. That's apparently what happened to the famous moon landing footage.

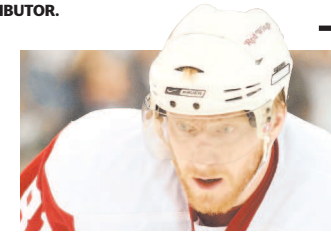
A walk on the mild side

Sports—and temps—stuck in the middle

By Ryan Smith | FOR REDEYE

Mild. That's probably the best word to describe the Chicago summer so far—considering the low temperatures and mediocre local sports results. As we head into what could be the most scorching part of the season (maybe?), let's take a look at who's hot and who's not right now in Chicago athletics. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

Milton Bradley and Alfonso Soriano
These highly paid but disappointing Cubs outfielders are ice cold.



Marian Hossa
Is his signing to the Blackhawks a sign Chicago's hockey renaissance is here to stay?

WHO'S HOT

Jay Cutler
Until he throws his first preseason interception.

Gordon Beckham
The floppy-haired Sox phenom is delivering big hits against the Cubs.

The Bulls' former roster
Ben Gordon (left) already has switched to a Detroit address, and others could be shipped off soon.

KAKURO EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redeyechicago.com/answers.

SCRABBLE

Make a 2- to 7-letter word from the letters in each row. Add points of each word, using scoring directions at right. Finally, 7-letter words get a 50-point bonus. "Blanks" used as any letter have no point value. All the words are in the Official Scrabble Players Dictionary, 3rd Edition. Find the answer at redeyechicago.com/answers.

Summer chic

Gordon-Levitt and Deschanel in '(500) Days of Summer'
FOX SEARCHLIGHT

Zooey Deschanel is so 4th of July. She's so sunscreen. She's so ... Summer.

The indie heartthrob, of course, plays the titular role alongside Joseph Gordon-Levitt in "(500) Days of Summer," which isn't really about a season at all. The quirky love flick—open in Chicago this weekend and elsewhere in limited release—isn't the first time a lady named for the warmest season of the year has made a splash on the big screen. Here now, RedEye's five favorite Summers in pop culture. (What, you were expecting 500?)

Meet the Summers

Summer Falls
from "Superstar" (1999)

Played by: Karyn Dwyer
Back story: Remember this quasi-cheerleading comedy from Will Ferrell and Molly Shannon? Summer was one of Mary Katherine Gallagher's nemeses.

Summer Roberts
from "The O.C." (2003)

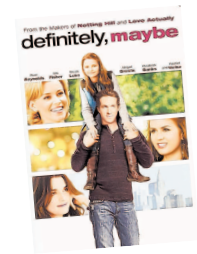
Played by: Rachel Bilson
Back story: You wouldn't think the popularity-focused high schooler would be a good fit for sarcastic indie nerd Seth, but she totally was.

Summer Hathaway
from "School of Rock" (2003)

Played by: Miranda Cosgrove
Back story: She played alongside Jack Black in this music hit from a few years back. Now she's the star of Nickelodeon's "iCarly." And no, don't ask us why we know that.

Summer Wheatly
from "Napoleon Dynamite" (2004)

Played by: Haylie Duff
Back story: Nobody wanted to be class president more than this overachiever. What a jerk!



Summer Hartley
from "Definitely, Maybe" (2008)

Played by: Rachel Weisz
Back story: Was she the mother of Ryan Reynolds' kid in this off-beat romantic flick? We'll never tell.

Shades of Summer

When movie makers name a character Summer, they have to know the audience has a certain idea about how that character will act. RedEye boiled down a few Summer traits to see who did—and didn't—fit the mold.

POP, LOCK AND DROP IT

Kid Sister

Mark your calendars, music fans.

After a long delay, Kid Sister is finally ready to drop her debut album, "Ultraviolet," on Oct. 6, according to a news release.

The album, originally slated for a 2008 release, features collaboration with Kanye West on the buzzworthy single "Pro Nails."

And elsewhere in music news, 50 Cent (below) has been hard at work in the recording studio. His album "Before I Self Destruct" is now set to be released on Sept. 29, according to MTV News.

THE DIGIT

15,000

Projected attendance for Pitchfork on Friday, according to festival organizers. Built to Spill, The Jesus Lizard, Yo La Tengo and Tortoise (right) were the scheduled opening headliners for the fest running through Sunday at Union Park.

THE VELVET ROPE

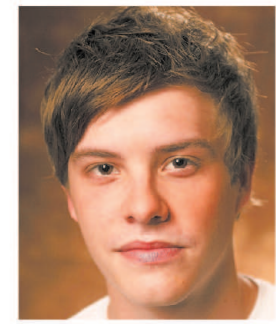
Boom-boom cuts

Good news and bad news, people. The good news: Katherine Heigl and Rihanna have interesting new 'dos. The bad news: We couldn't find a good picture of Rihanna's, which is a buzzed Mohawk-style thingy. Heigl (right) sported her new brunet attitude Thursday in L.A.

Missing Mischa

As expected, Mischa Barton, who was mysteriously hospitalized Wednesday, didn't attend the premiere of her new flick, "Homecoming," on Thursday in New York City. "It's a trying time for her," producer Austin Stark told usmagazine.com at the event. "I mean, obviously we'd like her to be here but I don't think it hurts the movie."

New guy!



Xavier who? Xavier Samuel—remember the name. The unknown Australian actor (right) has landed the first new role in "Eclipse," the third installment of the "Twilight" franchise, according to The Hollywood Reporter. Samuel will reportedly play Riley, a newborn vampire—and hottie college student.

Not cool

Pepsi is speaking out about the spread of footage from Michael Jackson's 1984 incident in which his hair caught fire while filming a commercial for the company. "Twenty-five years later, we'd question why anyone would want to share such frightening images," a rep for the company tells Entertainment Weekly. "It was a terrifying event that we'll never forget." Ouch!

What's cookin'?

"Top Chef" judge Tom Colicchio (right) and his wife, Lori Silverbush, have a bun in the oven. They're preparing for the arrival of a baby boy due in early August, he tells people.com. Colicchio has a 16-year-old son from a previous relationship.
